

Protect Our Air & Water, Forests & Farmland, Jobs & Transportation Investments

Vote No on I-2117: We Can't Afford It

I-2117 would cut investments in clean air and water, forests and farmlands, jobs and transportation — increasing toxic pollution across our state and making traffic worse.

Instead of a fee on pollution being paid by a few, it would shift the burden of paying for the impacts of pollution back onto communities, workers, and families.

It's being bankrolled by an extreme, right-wing donor who moved to WA to avoid taxes on his hedge fund; he's "Tim Eyman with a gigantic bank account," as the The Seattle Times put it.

The Costs to Our Communities & Families

It would strip away investments in every county in Washington, including investments in:

- Clean air and water, like programs to reduce toxic air and water pollution that endangers our families and communities.
- Programs that lower costs for Washingtonians, like utility bill discounts for households with low incomes.
- Programs to prevent wildfires, including funding for local governments to reduce the risk of fires.
- Transportation, putting transit service, ferries and road projects at risk across the state and making traffic worse.
- Support for Tribal nations, like programs to help keep Native communities safe from flooding and sea level rise.
- Farmland, farmers, and ranchers, like grants that support farmers' and ranchers' sustainable practices.
- Fish habitat and salmon recovery, like grants to remove barriers that hurt migrating salmon.

Join Us: Endorse No on 2117

Join our growing, unprecedented coalition of over 100 environmental and business leaders, Tribal nations, labor unions, and community organizations in Washington State coming together to defeat I-2117 and defend the Climate Commitment Act.
